

F (Con't from pg 35)

E Which brings us to the topic of abortion, another nasty tactic used E by those who would rather see babies massacred by the millions by way of D machete than witness one functional, God-fearing family find happiness at the B expense of a tree on some far edge of the world. On December 28, 1998, the A Germany World Population Fund claimed that 1/3 of the population growth in C the world resulted from incidental or unwanted pregnancy. Unwanted preg-K nancies! What a load of codswallop, but what I would expect from some Europeans who probably believe nudity is natural, sex is healthy and the aroma of perspiration desirable. If you are having sex, especially as a whore moanal teenager, you should be fully prepared for the consequences, not geared up for a light-hearted murder session. These feminine supremacists think they have power because they believe killing unborn fetuses is a valid form of birth control, have multiple abortions because it is fun, it is a rush. They whine about patriarchies and other buzzwords, whinging about most insurance policies covering Viagra but not basic birth control. This is no excuse for MURDER! They should have the babies they took responsibility for making, never mind that their bodies will be changed forever and the resulting human will either join the ranks of children raised in orphanages and foster homes, or adopted leaving another homeless, or raised by their unwilling birthmother who will have to balance or give up career, ambitions, relationships and potential relationships to raise the child well, trying hard not to resent her blessed position as mother or scar the child by making him or her feel like a burden.

Those sick souls, or absences of souls, who get their kicks by advocating MURDER may say that by denying women access to emergency birth control or the safe, sanitized, legal termination of early pregnancies, the entity controlling reproduction essentially controls the lives of women, going so far as to hyperbolically call it biological slavery. This is not a moral decision to be determined and made by the individual but by the government! If we can not trust the government to take care of us, then who can we trust?
The majority's spiritual beliefs about souls and baptisms is more valid than the minorities' and thus, to be on the safe side, must dictate the law. This is the land of the free, after all! The overpopulationists want us to take responsibility for our population, and we are - it is our responsibility to cry murder at every mention of abortion, to refuse to hear the anti-life's arguments about respecting individual choices to have an abortion or to not. It is our choice to wish no one has the choice! There is no excuse for murder. MUR-DER. Spread the word! Plaster late-term abortion pictures of babies that could have, under more fortunate circumstances, lived outside the womb on your trucks and drive it down the highway! We must shield our youth from television violence and Janet Jackson's boobies but this gruesome, misleading image is okay for children's consumption as it is the TRUTH and they have a right to know, with their own two eyes. Violence is a myth perpetuated by (spit) "liberals" who would like us to channel our hard-earned money, meant to be spent on our children, into the inner cities and other havens for people who rely on others to care for them or the children they produce. Wait.

Ariana I

Graphite

"1951 Yogi Berra"

Anyway, before you find your mind wandering and perhaps lingering too long on the anti-life side of the fence, be sure to remember all the eggs and sperm, these infinite halves of people, these little seeds of potential just vying for an opportunity, for as many opportunities as you possibly give those souls standing around in Void currently awaiting life, and remember that if it wasn't our job to be fruitful and multiply we would not have such bits and pieces. In the words of prestigious conservative think tank Monty Python, every sperm is sacred. Do not put the sacred potentials for precious life in the hands of loose, emotional women with delusions of self-definition!
Standing up for life entails 'sploding legal health clinics if necessary. These women who are already born and have families, friends, motivations, lives and careers already earned and built - if they want to give all that up for a back alley abortion, then they deserve to die! The Pilgrims did not travel many miles over mountain and sea to worry about starving children in Africa! Our noble, pure Caucasian cowboys did not drive the red-skins from our destined lands of the beautiful West so your young, snot-nosed neighbor could express a desire to not be pressured into having children under irresponsible circumstances!

Overpopulation is a myth. This is the land of the free, dammit! We won't stand for the oppression of life, family and goodness. As we sit eating our vegan meals, discussing our opposition to war and the death penalty, there is an occasional pause to squeeze shut our eyes and thank God, and the menfolk, for taking charge of things and ensuring that everything will be okay as long as we don't give into considering the sick paranoia and immoral, unthinking ideology that is other people's opinions. ■