Four Year Colleges with Structured Programs

Many of the schools listed here are listed in Colleges for Students with Learning Disabilities and AD/HD, 8th Edition (Petersons) and Princeton Review's K&W Guide to Colleges for Students with Learning Disabilities or ADHD, 9th Edition

Things to keep in mind:

1. There are colleges listed in the guides that are not listed here. This is because I called the school and either they have discontinued their special program or they never had one. Neither Peterson's nor K&W appears to have a perfect understanding of what a separate, structured program is, so they have listed departments that don't provide special programs.
2. These guides do not provide exhaustive lists of schools with special programs. They get their information by sending out questionnaires, and if a school does not respond, that school does not get listed in the guide - period. Ask your guidance counselor if he or she has the names of more schools with special programs.
3. For most programs, you have to be admitted to the college before you can be considered for admission to the special program
