

PRIDE 2010

On Sunday April 18, early in the morning, several teachers from the Kinnelon School District met at the Rockaway Townsquare mall to put up our PRIDE display. Thank you Julie Spirko, Kelly O'Connor, Jamie Nyegaard, Doreen Kolster, Teresa McMahon and Dena Dilenno. For your dedication and support of this program. As you can see from the pictures below, we had a total of eight tables filled with student work (front and back) this year (the most ever). We just keep growing and growing!

Several hundred pieces of student work is represented on our display tables this year. The body of work displayed (a combination of diorama's, book reports, brochures, posters, stories, poems, and murals) is a great representation of the excellence in education scene in the Kinnelon Public Schools.

Teachers throughout the Kinnelon Public School district submitted student work to be placed on display at the Rockaway Townsquare Mall during MCCEA's (Morris County Council Education Association) PRIDE in Education" campaign, in Rockaway Township during the week of April 18 - 25. Several teachers from the school district collected the work and headed to the mall on April 18th for an early set up. This year the Kinnelon School District is proud to display 8 tables worth of student work. If you get the chance, please stop by the mall, the week of April 18 - 25, to view this marvelous work. Kinnelon's display tables are located on the upper level in front of Abercrombie and Fitch.
